TOP FIVE TIPS

BOOST YOUR CHILD'S MUSICAL TALENT

When a child shows an interest or talent for something positive like music, as parents we naturally look for the best environment for that talent to blossom. We will go wherever and whenever we can to keep any flame of passion well-lit.

Expert researchers focused on the talent development of children tell us that we can boost both the achievement and happiness of our children if we follow some simple steps.

Top 5 Tips to Boost Your Child's Musical Talent

- Expose your child to a variety of experiences
- When your child shows a strong interest or talent, give them opportunities to develop them
- Our kids need our support. Support not only their emotional and intellectual needs, but also their creative needs.
- Mindset is everything. Help your kids develop a mind focussed on 'personal growth', by praising their effort, not the current ability.
- Encourage your child to take risks and not fear mistakes. A fear of mistakes will prevent learning. Let them know that we all learn best through 'trial and error.'

#1 Trap to Avoid - "Beware of labels - being described as gifted can be too large of an emotional burden for a child to carry.
